

DAMAGE DONE AT AEL

Two theses were stolen. Legal authority was contacted, and they estimated the suit could run for over one million dollars for each thesis -- and the legal authorities explained that the suits would have no trouble in being won once brought to court.

Printing presses were operated by inexperienced members of the April 3rd Movement and the damage was extensive.

All paper stored at AEL was used by the April 3rd Movement. Damage was estimated at over 400,000.

Time and effort lost during the occupation has been estimated by valid engineers at over 100,000 dollars a day.

Much more damage was done, and from the figures quoted above, one can see that this last sit-in was by no means peaceful!

Are we going to allow a minority of cocky moralists to damage this campus so extensively? It is time the students and faculty of Stanford University opened their eyes to see the threat these hypocritical moralists are posing to the security of this academic community!

If the April 3rd Movement has something that will enhance the prestige of this university, they should express their viewpoint -- NOT FORCE IT DOWN OUR THROATS!

We have allowed the April 3rd Movement to force us into taking positions when we are not fully aware of the honest facts. Is this the way to run an honored university?

We expected freedom to study when we came to Stanford University -- the April 3rd Movement has made this impossible. They have violated university policies and should be brought before the SJC to stand trial for their actions. If they are so "right" as they do claim, then let them express that opinion in front of the SJC.
