

THE SKY'S THE LIMIT
UNTIL LEONARD IS SET FREE

This Thursday Leonard Siegel goes on trial for "gross behavior requisite to an academic community." The case against him will be based solely upon his participation in the April Third Movement in the Encina sit-in, and his contempt conviction during the Off ROTC struggle. We are forced to ask whether:

- counterinsurgency research like William Hambo's electronics warfare work at AEL
- the presence of ROTC on this campus
- the de-bugging of GAMUT-H, a program for amphibious warfare in Indochina at the Computation Center are not "gross violation of behavior . . ." These are what Leonard has been fighting, and this is why the University is prosecuting him.

But these liberal considerations aside, we must get to the root of the matter. Most of you remember Leonard as the Main Library Exhibitionist and for that half-time at Big Game when he exposed himself over and over to the crowd for what he is. WE FEEL THAT THE UNIVERSITY IS TRYING TO KEEP LEONARD OUT OF STANFORD FOOTBALL GAMES. Already Leonard was unable to attend the Rose Bowl because of an insidious germ warfare assault that laid him up for three days. When asked about his inordinate attendance at Stanford football games and ostentatious behavior, Leonard replied, "I only wish I had done more!"
